COAL INDUSTRY MAY AGAIN BE PLACED UNDER FEDERAL CONTROL

Serious Situation Because of the Shortage of Open Top Cars

MILLS ARE FEARING SHUTDOWN

Federal control of thecoal industry is again a possibility, in view of the restricted production of black diamonds, because of the shortage of the open car supply. Order No. 7 of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which restricts the use of open top cars to the coal trade, and which is still effective for the next ten days, is having a serious effect on the steel trade, and it is intimated that many mills may have to cose down unless there is a modification of this order.

On the other hand the coal operators are requesting a continuance of the order for an additional thirty days from the 21st day of July. in order to take care of the insistent needs of the country for coal. A number of hearings have been held in Washington before the Interstate Commerce Commission, with a view of having the order modified, and another important hearing is scheduled for Tuesday with a view of arriving at some conclusion on this important and pressing question.

Railway officials would like to have some modification of the order to take care of o ther industries, particularly the steel and road building enterprises, but unless the I.-C. C. makes some changes in the order this relief will be impossible. Coal operators still insist that car placements are away below requirements, and unless there is a full supply many parts of the country will be short of fuel this coming winter. Coal men say that if the order is continued for a period of an additional thirty days the crisis will be passed, after which it will be safe to modify the order. In the meantime the steel mills are piling up production in their yards at the same time utilizing box cars for shipments wherever it is possible to do so. In some cases it is found necessary to utilize trucks short haul deliveries, in order to keep the trade supplied, but this is an expensive operation and not profitable to the mills. Road construction is also seriously affected by the situation, as it is pointed out thereis over 1.000 miles of new highways under construction in Pennsylvania at atota cost of $47,-000,000 all of which is practically at a standstil simply because the contractors are unable to secure delivery of materials.

At the conference to be held in Washington tomorrow it is expected that some plan will be evolved whereby there will be a closer co-operation between the roiroads and the mines which will be the advantage of all parties concerned. Unless some feasible plan is adopted it is likely that operating under provisions of the Lever act, the federal government will assume control of the coal situation and distribute the output according to the needs of industries.

ENFORCING REGULATIONS AGAINST STREET LOAFERS

So many complaints having been made to Burgess Cox of Donora because of crowds of street loafers along McKean avenue in that town that he has issued an order to the police to break up the habit. It is said the idlers have in the past made insulting remarks to women who were passing, and on more than one occasion this practice has led to trouble. Now the police are directed to compel all such "statuary" to move on, and if they refuse, to arrest them. The Burgess is determined to break up the practice.

FINLEYVILLE STORE RAIDED BY ROBBERS

Bandits made another raid on Finleyville some time Friday night, last looted the Levinsky store there of articles desired and then stole a Ford automobile owned by William Deitrich and made their escape.

Like the gang thatrobber the First National Bank of Finleyville the perpetrators of the latest robbery apparently have made a clean getaway. Officers have been working on the case since last Saturday morning, when the robbery was discovered, but have no clues on which to work.

Entrance to the Levinsky store was gained by forcing a rear door. Thirty woman's silk waists, a number of men's silk shirts, and a considerable quantity of materials and notions were taken. The Deitrich machine, which disappeared during Friday night, is believed to have been taken by the bandits and that they made their escape with their loot in it. The machine had license plate 88-153 on it.

BRIDGE NOW CLOSED TO ALL VEHICLE TRAFFIC

The Donora-Webster bridge was closed to all vehicle traffic on Friday at 7:30 o'clock, and will remain closed until the contracting company has completed the concreting of the approaches on both sides of the river. The bus line which operates between Donora and Monessen is compelled to transfer passengers, as pedestrians are permitted to use the bridge. It is expected the bridge will be closed for about ten days.

My wife Mrs. Margaret Bertraux left my bed and board without any cause and I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by her.

ALLOT BOX CARS FOR ROAD WORK

With the state highway program seriously affected by inability of contractors to get shipments of cement, the Public Service Commission at Harrisbuhg on Saturday following an appeal by the State Highway Department ,issued an order to the railroads of the state to furnish 84 box cars a day to the commonwealth for cement carriage.

Roadwork in the state is at a standstill, considerable portions of many roads being impassable on account of the incompleted work, which makes extended detours necessary. The Highway Department pointed out that if this situation was to continue during the winter it would preclude the use of important arteries of travel and seriously interferes with the transportation of the state, in addition to preventing contractors from finishing their jobs. An immense loss to the state is threatened by the car shortage.

FIREMEN GIVE BIG OPEN AIR FESTIVAL

The Monongahela fire department gave a big open air festival and entertainment on the Chess property in that town Friday evening. The entertainment was in connection with the campaign which they now have under way for the purpose of raising $12,000 with which to purchase a new fire truck equipped with a high power pump. A fine program had been provided, in the way of music, moving pictures and street dancing Refreshments were also served. Several thousand people attended the entertainment, and it proved to be a very happy and delightful occasion. The firemen expect to raise the amount of money they have set as their goal.

STEAMER VESTA IS BEING PUMPED OUT

The steamer Vesta, which was sunk about four weeks ago near Allenport during a violent storm, is being raised today. Four steamers of the Vesta line, the B. F. Jones, Henry Laughlin, Aiquippa and the Warren Elsey are at work on the sunken boat, and if there is no mishap expect to have the steamer afloat this afternoon.

Frank Brison

Frank Brison, died Saturday, July 10 at 10 o'clock p m., aged 59 years. Funeral services will be held at his late home Washington avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, interment in Charleroi cemetery. Mr. Brison was a native of Belgium; he is survived by his widow and two sons.

We are promised another increase in the cost of living this fall, because it is intimated the railroads will be alowed to increase their freight rates, in order to meet the increased payroll when the Railroad Labor Board makes its decision. Thus we are on the merry-go-round —one thing goes up and others follow.

FRICK COMPANY TO STRIP-MINE COAL

According to present plans the big new steam shovel installed by the H. C. Frick Coke company to strip coal near Masontown, will start operations tomorrow morning. The big shovel has acapacity of six cubic yards and weighs 312 tons. There has been a little delay in getting the machinery installed but everything is now practicaly ready for work. As soon as a sufficient quantity of coal is uncovered the smaller shovel to be used for the actual digging will be started. The coal will be loaded on small mine cars and hauled to Ronco, to be shipped by river to Clairton for use at the by-product coke pant. By this method the Frick Coke company will be able to materially increase the daily output of coa, of which the Carnegie steel interests are in such need at the present time.

WEST PENN TAKES UP TROLLEY FREIGHT

The West Penn trolley company has inaugurated a freight service on its lines. between Trafford City and Uniontown, the first trip being made on Thursday. It is likely that the service will be extended to Brownsville in a short time. While regarded as an innovation in the coke region, yet it is anticipated that the service will become so popular that a number of cars will ultimately be placed on the lines for the purpose of carrying freight. The Fayette county district is dependent on the railroad systems for freight deliveries and there has been considerable delay. The trolley freight is expected to expedite the local service.

AUTO LICENSE WILL REACH 525,000 THIS YEAR

The automobile division of the State Highway Department on Saturday predicted that over 525,000 licenses will be issued this year for pneumatic-tired vehicles. Tag No. 469,000 was issued on Friday. The total number of licenses issued for pneumatic tired vehicles in 1919 was 441,224. There have been a total of 41.556 licenses issued for solid tired vehicles this year; in 1919 the total number was 40,893 Up to July 8 the totad amount of receipts for 1920 amounted to $7,176 761.47. This is an increase of $1 086,115.78 over 1919.

Mr. Bryan has not yet sent a congratulatory telegram to Mr. Cox. The chances are, that the "peerless" one will put off such a compliment indefinitely, at least until his heart returns from the grave

MAY ADOPT SOME MEASURES TO PROTECT IMPROVED COUNTRY ROADS

DONORA YOUTH ADMITS TURNING TO BURGLARY

It remained for an eight-year-old boy to develop into Donora's youngest burglar. This boy admitted to the police that he had entered a store in that town and taken a box of women's silk waists. The mother of the boy was found to be wearing a similar garment, concerning which it is said she told two conflicting stories, finally stating that her daughter had bought the garment. The Donora police are greatly annoyed at the numerous roberies taking place in that town, most of which it is said are committed by boys of tender years.

SLAIN IN ATTEMPT TO FORCE WINDOW

Awakened early Sunday morning by someone attempting to gain entrance into her home, according to her story to the police. Mrs. Nancy Green, aged 23, of Brownsville, fired three shots from a front room in the house. A few minutes later Charles Gimbers, aged 35, of Brownsville, was found dead on the front porch.

It appears that Mrs Green, who it is reported had been separated from her husband, had been in New York for more than a year. She was in Brownsville on a visit to her parents over Independence Day, and had spent the remainder of the week there. She had been sleeping on a couch in a front room on the first floor.

Sunday morning about 4 o'clock she was disturbed by a noise at the front door. She commanded the person to leave the premises, she said, when the sounds continued, and she fired a shot through the door. According to her story the person on the porch then went to the window and began fumbling at the lock. The blind was down and Mrs. Green again commanded the intruder to leave. As he appeared to pay no attention to her request she fired two shots through the glass.

Her father and other members of the family were aroused by the shots and with Mrs. Green they went out on to the porch and found Gimber's body lying on the floor.

Commissioners Realize Necessity of Taking Care of County Roads

TRUCKS ARE BEING OVERLOADED

The commissioners of Washington county are giving very serious consideration to the question of truck hauling over the roads of the county and particularly those improved highways over which the county has jurisdiction. The commissioners are aware of the fact that the highways are abused daily by the use thereon of trucks loaded with excess weight. Unless the owners of these trucks voluntarily desist from the practice and reduce the loads carried to a "safe and sane" basis, it wil be necessary for the authorities to take action that will forcibly bring about such a condition as a means of protection to the improved highways of the county.

There are many trucks in use today which have a capacity of over 20,000 pounds, or ten net tons, a load similar to that of railroad cars of a few years ago. It is asserted that many of these trucks are loaded above that limit, and the result is that many improved roads are giving way under this terrific strain. Road building apparently has not reached the point where itcan stand up day after day under such terrific pressure, and until such time as we have arrived at a point where it is possibe to accommoderate such truck loads, restrictive measures will have to be applied to such means of transportation. During the war a number of roads in the county were practically destroyed by coal trucks in getting out production, and this phase of the situation was allowed to pass by because of the circumstances surrounding the transportation problem of the country. However, county officials are of the opinion that no such emergency exists at the present time, and that improved roads must be protected against those who would overload their trucks. The State has regulations which are now being enforced and the sommissioners feel that unless there is a complete reformation in the matter they will be compelled to adopt similar methods in order to conserve the improved roads of the State.

FIRST PRINCIPLES IN COAL.

Two interesting suggestions of a trend "back to first principles" are afforded in the matter of coal movement. In the first place, there is the greatly increased use of the rivers in the Pittsburg district for the movement of coal, and in the second place there is the rather liberal buying of railroad cars by interests engaged in the manufacture of by-product coke.

For several years the movement of coal by the Monongahela River appeared distinctly like a decadent industry. The vogue of the river in the earlier years of Pittsburg coal development was chiefly in connection with the working of seams that outcropped on the valley which was produced in geologic times by erosion. As the veins had to be penetrated further and further, interest in them decreased, and shaft mines with railroad connections undertook most of the service previously performed by mines with their river tipples. In recent years there has been trend toward the river again, many short rail lines being built to carry coal to the river for water shipment. Particularly in the past three months, during the rail strike and the ensuing traffic congestion, there has been a much higher appreciation than ever of the facilities the river offers for coal transportation, and there has been feverish haste to repair old water craft as well as to build new barges.

The other movement is likewise a return in a way to first principles, for when railroads were first built in the United States it was a common throught that they would prove to be open highways for individual shippers, who would provide their own vehicles and means of locomotion. The idea did not "work" well, as it does on canals, and it was left chiefly to the railroads to provide cars as of necessity they provide locomotives. Private ownership of cars, however, did not down entirely, and in the case of coal at least the application of the private ownership principle is increasing.

HIGH COST OF FASTIDIOUSNESS

To the man who believes that "an apple a day keeps the doctor away" unless he be a capital or a labor profiteer, the conditions in the market for boxes, paper and nails, not to mention the fruit itself this year will be a matter of momentous concern. The interdependence of one line of business upon another and the eternal round of human affairs is strikingly illustrated by the seemingly strange association of the above commodities. The man who buys a fancy apple from the next Western crop—perhaps the maker of boxes, paper or nails himself—will pay his share for the increased cost of these three articles.

Eastern dealers are so used to getting their "extra fancy" apples from the Pacific territory in wrappers that they may fancy them to be of a lower grade when otherwise received. But the situation in wrapping paper indicates that what has been done before can be done again in this respect and the dealers will have to grin and bear it. Most consumers would be ready to do so. The excessive wrapping of this, that and the other product is not to the taste of the consumers in these days of high prices. They would be a little less fastidious if dealers would allow it.

However, in the case of those apples which are to be wrapped, the serious shortage of paper and the high prices will mean a considerable increase of marketing cost. In one district of Washington, the three items of boxes, paper and nails stand to cost the growers to total nearly $4,000,000. This is an increase of nearly $2,000,000 over the outlay of last year, and 1919 itself was a period of high prices. So one thing affects another, and the vicious circle gets to be more vicious, ad infinitum.

HEAVY FINES IMPOSED ON TRUCK DRIVERS

Fines aggregating $3,658 were imposed on seven automobile truck owners in Wheeling by the municipal court of that city on Friday for violation of the city traffic ordinance. Arrests followed official measurements of wheel base of the trucks several weeks ago. The city laws provide for a load of not more than 600 pounds to the inch. The trucks were stopped and taken to city scales where they and their loads were weighed, after which warrants were issued. Destruction of city streets by heavy hauling is the cause of action.

SCRAWLED BY GREAT POET?

Signature of William Shakespeare, Believed Genuine, Found on Wall in Hampton Court.

The discovery of the signature of William Shakespeare, scrawled years ago on the wall of the "haunted gallery" of Hampton court, has just been made in London. Shakespeare authorities pronounce it authentic.

The disclosure was made when Ernest Law, the court antiquarian, was directing the renovations. On the wall of the old retiring room he found, after cleaning it, the letter "S," followed by illegible letters, concluding "kespeare," and beneath the rough sketch of a hand and the date 1606.

It is a matter of history that the Shakespeare company visited the palace at the date set down and played "Hamlet" before the then King Christian of Denmark. The company dressed in the "haunted gallery," near the great hall where the play was enacted.

The gallery, according to ancient tradition, is haunted by the ghost of Catherine Howard, one of Henry VIII's six wives, who was imprisoned there. History tells that she escaped from confinement while the king was praying in his private chapel, and that her flight was discovered by the court guards, who dragged her screaming to the king, interrupting his devotions.

It was long said that Catherine nightwalked the gallery, shrieking.—Toronto Globe.

Bull Enough There, Too.

When a bull gored a man the other day the [illegible] reported it down that the victim was "bored by a fool" and died. The police theory at the time was that he had perished at a political meeting.—London Opinion.

FIRST SINKING ACCIDENT TO BIG STEEL BARGE

The Edgar Thomson of the Carnegie Steel line, sank one of the big steel barges at Lock Three on Sunday. The steamer was on the way down stream with six loaded barges bound for Cairton. In approaching Lock 3 the headway of the boat was not sufficiently "killed" and as a result one of the head barges crashed into the outer guide wall of the lock. The barge sustained such damages that it sank in about forty minutes. A short time after a digger was secured and lifter the coal out of the barge, and it is now being raised. This is the first a ccident of the kind to any of the big barges of the Carnegie line.

Hundreds of Women

nowadays are entering the professions or business world and go to work day after day in bad health, afflicted with some female ailment dragging one foot wearily after the other, working with an eye on the clock, and wishing for closing time to come.

Women in this condition should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs. It has brought health and happiness to more women in America than any other remedy. Give it a trial.
